SHOT BY HIS COMPANION

Dexter Campbell Badly Wounded By Edward Lankford.

BULLET BURIED IN BRAIN

Rifle Ball Enters Neck of Youth Just at Base of the Brain, Fracturing the Skull—Little Hopes for His Recovery.

With a bullet buried in his brain and chances for his recovery very slight, Master Dexter Campbell, ten years old, the clever son of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel R. Campbell, lies in his home in Locust street as the result of being accidentally shot by a playmate at noon yesterday.

The exact details of the affair cannot be obtained, owing to the frightened manner of the two boys who were with young Campbell when Master Edward Lankford fired the bullet into his neck, just at the base of the brain, but that the shooting was purely accidental there is absolutely no doubt.

Hunt in Front of Gun. Master Dexter, accompanied by young Lankford and Master King Morrison, each armed with a 22-calibre rifle, left Hampton shortly before noon yesterday for a gunning trip in the country. When about two miles from the city the youngsters began shooting at birds and other targets. It is said that young Campbell ran directly in front of the rifle in the hands of Lankford as the latter pulled the trigger to fire at a bird. The ball struck young Campbell in the back of the neck, just at the base of the brain, and according to the opinion of the physician, took an upward course and lodged somewhere in the brain. The boy was rendered unconscious and up to last midnight he had remained in that state, save for one or two half-conscious moments.

After the shooting Lankford and Morrison started back to the city to call for assistance, but Mr. Roland Sinclair, who lives near the scene of the shooting, happened to be coming to the city in a buggy. Noticing young Campbell lying on the road Mr. Sinclair placed the boy in his buggy and brought him to his home in Locust street as fast as the horse he was driving could make the trip.

The first information the parents of the wounded boy had of the accident was when Mr. Sinclair drove up in front of the residence and, tenderly placing the boy on his shoulders, carried Dexter into the house.

Recovery in Doubt.

Physicians were hurriedly summoned and Drs. Walter A. Piecker and W. H. Howard were soon on the scene. Owing to the weakened condition of the boy the physicians decided not to attempt to locate the bullet by probing for it. Dr. Piecker and Dr. Howard soon recognized the serious condition of the wounded boy and after making him as comfortable as possible decided to await developments.

The physicians said last night that the chances are decidedly against the lad, as he has remained unconscious since the shooting took place and there is doubt but what the bullet entered the brain and fractured the base of the skull, where it entered.

Master Dexter is a bright youngster and is a very manly little fellow. He is popular with a wide circle of playmates and the distressing accident has brought many expressions of sympathy to the family.
